Digital displays help to inform customers of the full product range, keep customers engaged during busy periods and manage internal and inter-office communications.

- Help customers select from a wide variety of products and services
- Update promotions without the need to wait for printed POS
- Use live data feeds from back-office systems
- Manual entry of key information is simple to use

Where can you use LiveSpace digital signage?

For your customers

Attract people with eye-catching advertising and window displays

Help people feel welcome and signpost them to the things they want

Use interactive touchscreens to showcase your full range

Video walls showing your promotional messages

For your teams

Front desk welcome screens for visitors

Video walls showing your internal communications

Digital noticeboards and sales leaderboards

Manage meeting rooms

LiveSpace makes your messages unmissable...

LiveSpace digital signage helps increase sales and keep people informed.

Respond to local opportunities

Localisation lets head office create and manage a list of promotions. Local managers are then free to choose the best offer for their local audience.

Zone your content

LiveSpace's grouping feature lets you zone your content. People in different areas of your buildings will see the right messages for them.

Exploit the power of live data

LiveSpace manages multiple data feeds and makes sure the offers you show match your customers' needs. Let your messages respond to changes in your data.
