

Offices & call centres

Digital displays in offices and call centres help by keeping teams updated, as well as welcoming and sharing essential information with visitors.

- Live feeds from a variety of back-office and third party systems
- Display a variety of indicators at the same time
- Metrics change in real-time
- Numeric and graphical output
- Call Handling Statistics – live calls, queued calls and average waiting time
- Order Processing Metrics – show number of orders at various stages
- Other company performance information

Where can you use LiveSpace digital signage?

- At the entrance – for visitor and staff information
- Meeting room management
- Central control room
- Production floor
- Staff café or chill-out zones

LiveSpace makes your messages unmissable...

LiveSpace digital signage helps increase sales and keep people informed.

Respond to local opportunities

Localisation lets head office create and manage a list of promotions. Local managers are then free to choose the best offer for their local audience.

Zone your content

LiveSpace's grouping feature lets you zone your content. People in different areas of your buildings will see the right messages for them.

Exploit the power of live data

LiveSpace manages multiple data feeds and makes sure the offers you show match your customers' needs. Let your messages respond to changes in your data.
